01 / YOUR MONTH'S MAIN STORY

Prepared especially for Jordan

What is still worth keeping?

What you spend, what you show, and which possibilities you are ready to explore.

A choice can still work and no longer feel like yours. November offers a reason to look again at what you buy, what you agree to and how you present yourself. Which decisions would you make the same way today?

The November 8 New Moon falls in your second house of money, possessions and priorities, close to your natal Pluto. Venus turns direct on November 13 in your first house of identity, almost exactly square your natal Venus. This reading therefore puts particular weight on the relationship between personal taste, security and the choices other people can see.

Start with a recurring expense, a possession you maintain, or an obligation that shapes your week. What does it give you now: convenience, enjoyment, reassurance, access? Something can keep earning its place long after the novelty wears off. Equally, the fact that you once wanted it is not a standing instruction to keep paying for it.

Near the end of the month, a different question grows more prominent: what would you like to learn or experience beyond your familiar surroundings? Uranus and Pluto both make very close contacts to your natal Moon at their November 29 trine. This is part of a longer cycle involving changing perspectives and personal interests. Follow the question that keeps catching your attention, especially if you cannot answer it with what you already know.

RECONSIDER

A choice that still needs to earn its place.

EXPLORE

A question that could change a familiar answer.

02 / YOUR PERSONAL CALENDAR

Dates worth circling.

Your strongest emphasis falls on priorities, self-presentation and a longer-running change of perspective. Highlighted dates connect especially closely with your natal chart.

08 SUN

SCORPIO NEW MOON • PERSONAL FOCUS

Look at what you keep paying for

YOUR CHART: New Moon conjunct your natal Pluto (0°54′ orb).

Choose one recurring expense or possession with ongoing costs. What benefit makes it worth keeping? Your answer might confirm the choice or suggest a change.

13 FRI

MERCURY + VENUS DIRECT • PERSONAL FOCUS

Does it still feel like you?

YOUR CHART: Venus square your natal Venus (0°08′ orb).

Revisit a choice that expresses your taste. Would you choose it again, or are you maintaining a version of yourself that other people recognize?

15 SUN

MARS CONJUNCT JUPITER

Join at a size you can sustain

Find out what joining a group effort would require before offering your time. The idea may appeal; the actual role needs its own decision.

24 TUE

GEMINI FULL MOON

Investigate the unfamiliar option

Follow a course, trip or different perspective beyond its initial appeal. Which part makes you curious, and which part makes you resist?

25 WED

MARS ENTERS VIRGO

Clarify the role before stepping in

Mars changes signs but remains in your group sector at this moment. Establish the scope of a collaborative task before taking it on.

29 SUN

URANUS TRINE PLUTO • PERSONAL FOCUS

Let the question get interesting

YOUR CHART: Uranus opposite / Pluto sextile your Moon (0°06′).

Explore an idea that challenges a familiar answer. Does your objection concern the evidence, or what changing your mind might mean?

NOVEMBER 2026 · PACIFIC DATES; YOUR LOCAL DATE MAY DIFFER BY A DAY. USE THESE AS REFLECTION POINTS, NOT DEADLINES.

03 / TWO AREAS WORTH EXPLORING

What makes a choice feel safe?

01

A purchase can carry an old agreement

The New Moon near natal Pluto in your money sector puts weight on what ownership means. Venus turning direct adds a complication: from your identity sector, it squares your natal Venus in the fourth house of home and belonging. What suits you now may rub against something that once made you feel settled or connected.

If a possession was a gift, or a habit belongs to a life you shared with someone, changing it can feel like making a statement about that relationship. Keeping it can feel like loyalty. Ask what you are trying to preserve: the object, the connection, or another person's understanding of you. They may need different kinds of care. You can value a history while deciding how much room it occupies in the present.

02

Curiosity can disturb a comfortable answer

At the November 29 trine, Uranus opposes your natal Moon across the learning-and-communication axis, while Pluto sextiles it from your creative sector. The first contact can unsettle a familiar explanation; the second suggests a way to work with what that opens up. Changing your perspective and finding your own expression may support each other, even when the process feels uncomfortable.

Perhaps a book, conversation or unfamiliar experience challenges something you have repeated for years. The interesting question is what makes the idea difficult to consider. Is the evidence weak, or would accepting it change how you relate to people who share the old view? Give the question somewhere to go: write about it, discuss it with someone who can disagree thoughtfully, or make something from it. You need not settle your position before exploring its implications.

> You can value a history while deciding how much room it occupies in the present.

04 / YOUR NOVEMBER PRIORITIES

Make a choice you can explain.

1 Make the cost explicit.

Review an ongoing expense or obligation. Name what it gives you today and what you give up to maintain it. Decide from that exchange, rather than from how long it has been there.

2 Choose for the life you have now.

Revisit a visible choice that no longer feels like yours. Consider the history attached to it, then decide which part deserves to continue. Keeping it should be a decision too.

3 Stay with the difficult question.

Follow an unfamiliar idea beyond your first reaction. Look for evidence that could change your view, then put your response into words. An unresolved question can still lead to a worthwhile conversation.

TWO QUESTIONS TO KEEP

What am I preserving by keeping this?

What evidence would make me reconsider my answer?

THE CHART BEHIND YOUR READING

08 NOV · PRIORITIES	New Moon 16°53′ Scorpio · house 2 Conjunct natal Pluto 17°47′ Scorpio · orb 0°54′.
13 NOV · PERSONAL TASTE	Venus direct 22°52′ Libra · house 1 Square natal Venus 22°44′ Capricorn · orb 0°08′.
29 NOV · PERSPECTIVE	Uranus 3°32′ Gemini / Pluto 3°32′ Aquarius Opposition / sextile to natal Moon 3°26′ Sagittarius · each orb 0°06′.

Context note: the November 29 pattern extends beyond a single day. The calendar marks an exact planetary alignment, not a deadline for a personal change.

AQUARIUS SUN / SAGITTARIUS MOON / VIRGO RISING

Fictional birth data: 17 February 1990 · 8:00 p.m. PST · Los Angeles
Tropical zodiac · Placidus houses · Interpretation based on the recorded birth time.